SLAYER OF ART MODEL KNOWN

Climax Nears Swiftly In Gotham Mystery

ABOUT TO SPRING TRAP

Blackmailer Slew Girl When She Refused to Aid

NEW YORK, March 26.—Broadway's latest murder tragedy, following its startling denouncement that turned the pitiless spotlight of publicity upon J. Kearsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire, moved swiftly today toward a climax—arrest of the murderer.

The slayer of Dorothy King, artist's model, found chloroformed to death March 15, is known to the police and the district attorney's office. The motive has been established; he sought to have the girl assist in blackmailing her "angel." Mitchell, the aristocrat, for a "very large sum of money." When she refused he went to her apartment and killed her and secured possession of letters written by the millionaire said to be couched in endearing terms, on which the blackmail was to have been based.

Expect Arrest Today

The police are about to spring their trap; Assistant District Attorney Pecora admitted arrest might come today.

Complete revelation of the blackmail plot, of which the millionaire professed himself in ignorance, was made over the weekend by Ella Bradford, the slain girl's maid. She, too, was asked to help in the plot, she told Pecora.

From the story of the maid and that told by Mitchell, and the latter's attorney, Jackson, who accompanied him to Miss King's apartment the night of the murder, Pecora believes he has been able to construct exactly what happened.

Setting of The Crime

Miss King, Mitchell and Jackson dined together the evening of March 14 and went together to the girl's flat. Jackson leaving within half an hour. Mitchell remained until 2 a. m when, he says, he left. The blackmailer, about to become a murderer, was hiding nearby. He crept into the apartment, leaped upon the model as she lay in bed, smothered her screams, twisted her arm brutally until she was unable to struggle, and then held chloroform to her nostrils until she was unconscious.

He ransacked the apartment, found the letter he sought and fled.

Mitchell remained in ignorance of the violent death of his friend Dorothy until next day.

The murderer is under surveillance; but the police apparently seek to secure material witnesses from among his companions in the blackmail scheme before taking him into custody.

Nomi is Sentenced to 18 Years for Murder

SAN MARCOS, March 26.—Otto Nami, former student of Texas University was found guilty on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of John K. Ross who was shot to death in Austin last winter. HARDING PLANS TO 'BEARD' GOP'S

Will Carry His Fight To Insurgent's Door

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—President Harding will carry the fight to congressional insurgents who repudiated certain of his policies, according to plans ascertained from a member of the presidential vacation party today.

Sweeping through the west on an old fashioned "stumping" tour, the president will lay his defense before the electorate, this spokesman says.

The trip will be primarily for the purpose of solidifying public opinion behind the administration rather than a "political appeal."

The president has told close friends that the supposedly authoritative announcements of Attorney General Daugherty and others don't mean that his decision to run again cannot be changed.

WARNER SENTENCED TO 20 YEARS FOR MURDER

FORT WORTH, March 26.—James L. Wamer was sentenced to twenty-five years in the state penitentiary on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of L. G. Humphreys, grocer, who was slain when he resisted an attempted holdup here January 30. The jury returned a verdict late yesterday.

1,200 Die of Poison Booze in Philadelphia in 12 Weeks

Federal and City Poilce Combine in Three Probes Which are Expected to Result in Wholesale Arrests

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—Following five deaths from poison liquor and eleven lesser cases of alcoholic poisoning over the week-end federal authorities and city police today combined forces to run down the source of the "liquid death."

Three investigations were under way today. One is being conducted by the police headed by Captain Souder and L. T. Belshaw, another by federal authorities, headed by William J. McClure, prohibition group head, and a third by the coroner's office.

10 Cents a Drink

Police said today that one of the victims of the poison liquor gave several addresses where the stuff was sold. The liquor is sold at 10 cents a drink, three drinks for a quarter, according to the police.

McClure today asked Director of Public Safety Cortelyou for 100 policemen to clean up saloons in the tenderloin district. The United States district attorney will be asked to make out warrants and wholesale arrests are expected, McClure said.

Denatured Alcohol

"Most of the booze is nothing more than pure denatured alcohol with caramel coloring," McClure said. "A person who drinks it can expect sure death."

In the last 12 weeks nearly 300 bodies have been taken to the morgue and in at least 1200 cases death resulted from alcoholism, according to William P. Condon, superintendent of the morgue.

"Many deaths announced as due to gas poisoning were afterward found to have been caused by poisonous liquor," Condon said.

PARK ELECTION IS STREET TOPIC

Fans Electioneer For Ball Park Site

Interest in the election Wednesday, when citizens of Port Arthur will go to the polls to settle the question of leasing a portion of Lake Shore park to the Port Arthur Athletic association, was growing today.

Both opposition and favor have been voiced to the proposed lease from all sides, some residents claiming that the lease should not be granted and some arguing that it should.

It is understood that in the event the lease proposal carries through the election, the athletic association will erect an athletic park on the Lake Shore drive parkway, donated to the city several years ago, with an improvement expenditure of at least $10,000.

The city at this time is without a municipal athletic park, and this fact has been used by proponents of the lease-election, while opponents have argued that the construction of any kind of enclosure on Lake Shore drive will tend to become a nuisance.

The election has been called as the result of a petition presented to the city commissioners, bearing over 800 names, which asked that a lease on certain parts of Lake Shore park be granted by the city of Port Arthur to the athletic association. The commissioners passed an ordinance calling the election and the date was fixed for March 28.

Officer Puts Reverse English on Raleigh; Saves Lives With Coat

CHICAGO, March 26.—A policeman's overcoat used as a net saved the lives of two women who jumped from windows of a blazing apartment building here today.

Mrs. Agnes Barber, 70 years of age, leaped from the ledge of a third floor window into the coat, held by four officers. The coat broke the force of her fall and saved her life.

Mrs. H. J. Mitchell, holding her two-year-old daughter in her arms, leaped into the improvised life net from a second story window. Neither was injured.

Alliance Approves Clean-Up Week Proposal

The Ministerial Alliance, during its meeting this morning, went on record as being in accord with Mayor Pink Logan's proposed clean-up and paint-up campaign, and let it be known that upon the presentation of the mayor's proclamation to them they would read the matter before the assembly.

Mayor Logan is preparing the proclamation at the present time and will announce its substance within a few days, he intimated this morning. The proclamation calls for a clean-up and paint-up to cover the entire city of Port Arthur beginning about April 2 and extending over a period of several days—possibly two weeks.

ATTACKS WOMAN WITH HAMMER

Victim Finds Assailant Crouching Near Bed

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Attacked in her sleep by a woman with a hammer, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien wife of a prominent attorney, was in a serious condition at a local hospital today.

Mrs. O'Brien was awakend early this morning by a sharp blow on the head. Crouching at the foot of her bed, she says, was a woman, hammer in hand—similar to the weapon with which Clara Phillips killed Mrs. Alberta Mendows.

Mrs. O'Brien, only stunned by the first blow of the hammer, attempted to run from the bedroom but the unknown woman attacked her again, and a second blow on the head caused her to fall to the floor. The hammer caught in her hair.

Screams of Mrs. O'Brien and her daughter attracted neighbors but the mysterious woman assailant escaped and so far the police have found no trace of her.

At the hospital it was stated Mrs. O'Brien has a severe fracture of the skull as a result of the hammer blows. Friends of the family can assign no reason for the attempted murder.

"EMBARRASSED HERE"

Says Decision Parly Result Of Friction With Wade

After 13 months as city engineer in Port Arthur, M. C. Erwin will present his resignation to the city commission today.

Announcement of this decision was made by the city engineer this morning, with the word that he goes to Beaumont April 1 to take charge of that city's two million street improvement and sewer and water line extension work.

Erwin said that since his refusal to comply with requests of Commissioner B. J. Wade that he resign, his work here "has been hampered by much unpleasantness" and the relations between himself and his commissioner feature in his decision to resign.

Says Relations Strained

The third engineer to be appointed during the administration of Commissioner Wade, Ecwin was asked to resign several months ago but refused on the grounds that he had been appointed to fill the unexpired term of his predecessor, and that Commissioner Wade had no grounds for demanding his resignation.

This unexpired term, Erwin pointed out today, runs until sometime between May 15 and June 1.

"Primarily, I am resigning to take a better job, but in the resignation I will bring out the things which have caused strained relations between myself and Commissioner Wade and the resulting unpleasantness which has hampered my work in Port Arthur since I refused to comply with his request that I resign as city engineer," Erwin said.

Came From San Antonio

Up until noon today, Erwin said he had not drawn up his resignation, and probably would not have it ready until the hour of commissioners meeting this afternoon.

Before coming to Port Arthur, Erwin was connected with the city engineering department at San Antonio, having charge of an extensive sewer and water line extension program carried out there. During his 20 years experience as a city engineer he had been connected with engineering departments in Dallas, and San Antonio and with the state board of health. He is a member of several national engineering associations.

AUDITORIUM FOR CITY PROPOSED

Logan Lays Tentative Plan Before Pastors

Port Arthur may have a municipal auditorium in the near future.

Steps looking toward the erection of such a building were begun this morning when Mayor J. P. Logan appeared before the Ministerial Alliance, and requested that that organization recommend one of their number to serve on a committee which the mayor is appointing to take action on the advisability of erecting a municipal auditorium here.

In Tentative Stage

"While the various organizations of the city are being called upon now to suggest their respective committeemen for a municipal auditorium committee," Mayor Logan declared later, "this does not mean the building will be built right away."

The mayor let it be known that he will probably appear before every civic organization in Port Arthur, requesting them to recommend a representative from their respective bodies to serve on the proposed committee, whose duty it will be, he said, to decide whether this is the proper time to erect a municipal auditorium, and to discuss the type of structure if they so choose.

Pastors Name Oeschger

Rev. Oeschger was recommended by the Ministerial Alliance this morning as their representative.

A municipal auditorium has been in demand here for some time, and the steps taken by Mayor Logan are the outgrowth of continued requests that such a building be constructed.

'Beauty-Proof' Jury Gives Woman Fiftieth of Claim

Chicago Woman Accuses Father-in-law of Breaking Up Home; Asks $250-000, Receives $5,000

CHICAGO, March 26.—A "beauty proof" jury today awarded Mrs. Gladys Graham Fox only $5,000 damages in her suit against her millionaire father-in-law, Albert Fuchs, whom she accused of breaking up her home.

Mrs. Fox, who had asked $250,000, dissatisfied with the small award, immediately asked for a new trial "by a new judge and a new jury," which was granted by Judge Scanlan.

Hand Picked Jury

The jurors, picked carefully by attorneys for the wealthy real estate dealer for their ability to withstand the appeal of an attractive woman, decided Fuchs had caused an estrangement between Mrs. Fox and her husband. After twenty hours of deliberation however, they agreed she was entitled to only one-fiftieth of the amount she asked.

All jurors declared Mrs. Fox's beauty in no way affected their decisions.

"I guess they were not influenced greatly by the evidence either," was Mrs. Fox's only comment.

She was plainly disappointed by the small judgment.

Callous Benedicts

The twelve men claimed they were immune to the comeliness of any woman. Their average age was just under forty and all but one was married.

Mrs. Fox claimed her father-in-law objected to her because she was not of German ancestry.

Her husband changed his name from Fuchs to Fox during the world war.

Mrs. Fox's attorney pictured her happy married life until, they alleged, the father-in-law interferred.

"Their home was a regular Garden of Eden until Fuchs, the serpent, appeared," Attorney Bangs, attorney for Mrs Fox, declared.

CURTAIN DROPS ON LAST DRAMA OF TRAGEDIENNE

World's Premier Actress Dies at 78

HER LAST WISH FAILS

Sought to Die, Like Moliere, On Stage

PARIS, March 26.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt is dead.

The great actress died at her home here today after a lingering illness. She clung to life and continued to breathe for hours after doctors abandoned all hope.

An infection of the kidneys of long standing was the cause of death.

Bernhardt was 78 years old. Despite advices of physicians during the last year that all strenuous activities be given up, she insisted upon appearing whenever possible.

Fought Valiant Battle

Several times in the winter months she suffered relapses and the end was considered inevitable. Each time by the exercise of her unconquerable will, Bernhardt struggled back from the door-sill of death and asserted she would live many years yet, to die at last, like the great Moliere, upon the stage.

The ambition of the "divine tragedienne's" life was denied her but in her dying moments the great roles she made famous came back to her, and in delirium, she spoke the lines from "Camille," and "L'Aiglon" that thousands of her admirers know.

Bernhardt's passing at this time marked a final tragedy in her wonderful life, for she was penniless at the end, and downstairs, as she lay dying the house was filled with garish movie sets, lighted by calcium lights and camera men came over on the day of death, insisting the film upon which she had been working musts be completed despite her illness. Several times toward the end, when Caffeinne and Camphor had been administered and she scarcely could breathe or move, Bernhardt, with indomitable will, fought off death and struggled to rise, to go downstairs and work to earn money to pay debts.

Dominated The Stage

For more than sixty years Bernhardt had been before the public admired by the world, courted by kings and princes in her younger days, and in her vivid personality fairly typifying the spirit of her country.

Mme. Bernhardt was born in Paris, October 22, 1845, and Christened Rosine Bernhardt. Her father was French, her mother a Dutch Jewess. Her early education was in a convent, and at the age of 15 she entered the training school of the French stage, the Conservatoire. Her first professional appearance was at the Camedie Francaise, but having no great success she left the stage for a time.

Bernhardt visited America many times. Her trips in 1911, 1913, 1916, and 1918 resulted in tremendous successes. When asked about her age and her secret of youth she merely said:

"I never think of years. They mean nothing to me."

Secret of Success

Sheer technical efficiency and the mastering of every detail is probably the real secret of her triumph in stagecraft.

In 1915, in Bordeaux, France, her right leg was amputated at the knee. Her physicians told her she would have to retire from the stage or sacrifice the limb. She chose her art — with an artificial leg. She was made a member of the Legion of Honor.

AUTOIST KILLED

Drivers Row Over Right of Way, Guns Settle It

Rodger Golightly surrendered to officers, it is reported. He was suffering from a pistol wound in the leg.

From the best information obtained here their cars locked in the road, and Golightly and Windham settled the matter with their six-shooters.

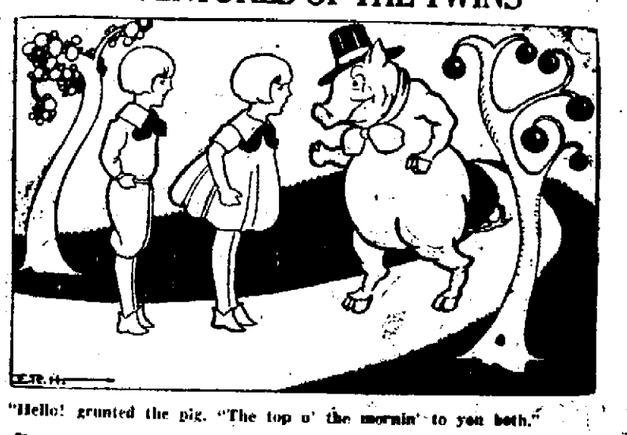
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS



"Hello! grunted the pig. "The top o' the mornin' to you both."

Nancy and Nick met a green-sugar pig in Sugar-Plum Land.

"Hello!" cried Nick.

"Hello!" grunted the pig. "The top o' the mornin' to you both."

"Thank you," said Nancy. "But why is the top better than the bottom, sir?"

"Sure an' don't ye be askin' me," replied the pig, straightening his green silk necktie and tapping his nice green silk stove-pipe hat. "Only the best of a milk bottle comes to the top, doesn't it, and so I suppose the best of the mornin' does, too. Where are you going?"

"We are on our way to the house of the Cut-Out Lady," explained Nancy. "She does mending for the Gingerbread Man and sews all his buttons on crooked every time his knic-knack dog bites her cocoanut cat. She gets so cross she can't see out of her one eye, and that's why she sews the buttons on wrong."

"Begorra, what of that?" asked Pat Green-Sugar Pig, good naturedly. "I wear no clothes at all, at all, and sure if I did I wouldn't mind a crooked button or two."

"But don't you see?" explained Nancy. "When the buttons are on crooked they won't go into the button holes and the Gingerbread Man gets upset. As he is boss of Sugar-Plum Land, it upsets everybody else, too, because he makes silly laws."

"That's too bad!" said Pat Green-Sugar Pig. "But don't let's worry. I'll tell you a secret. If you pull hard, my head comes off and down inside of me you'll find some cinnamon drops. But be sure to put my head on again or I'll be no ornament to the community."

"Oh, we will, we will!" promised Nancy. So the pig's head was taken off and very shortly put on again.

"Thank you," said the wise. "The drops are delicious."

"Now I'll be going," said Pat. "Give my love to the Gingerbread Man and tell him not to worry about trifles like buttons."

MRS WILL ROGERS, WIFE OF THE COWBOY HUMORIST, AND THEIR 9-YEAR OLD DAUGHTER, MARY.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Meet the wife that's got the greatest competition in the world. She's Mrs. Will Rogers.

Every night her husband steps out and cavorts around the most remarkable aggregation of grace, charm and pulchritude that the world has ever known—the young women of Mr Ziegfeld's Follies.

Does Mrs. Rogers get nervous about it?

Not that anybody knows of. Ever so often she commutes into New York to see that Will has plenty of clean collars and things and then she commutes back to California to perform a similar service for the Rogers' offspring, Bill, Mary and Jim.

But all the time she's perfectly calm. And every night, whether the missus is in New York or California, Will Rogers steps out on the stage and pulls the venerable gag:

"Yeh, I'm one of them movie actors from Hollywood. But I'm an unusual movie actor I been married 15 years and I got the same wife I started with."

Mrs. Rogers gives these tips on how to keep a husband's love under Follies competition:

ONE: Feed him. (Mr. Rogers' favorite dish is beans. As a cowboy he learned to like beans. Does Mrs. Rogers say, 'My goodness, Will, I DO wish you'd eat something else'? She does not. She serves beans twice a week.)

TWO. Laugh at his jokes. (Even if they're old ones, she adds.)

THREE. Encourage his hobbies. (Mr. Rogers' hobby is music. He plays the ukelele. And Mrs. Rogers never groans.)

FOUR Let him wear his old clothes if he wants to. (She says old clothes got Will into the movies. A movie producer was going down the street one day wondering where he could pick up a tramp that looked like a tramp. He saw Will Rogers. "Ah," exclaimed Mr. Goldwyn or whoever it was, "the very type!")

Mrs. Rogers says being married to a professional humorist isn't nearly as funny as it may seem.

ALLEN CONTEST UP APRIL 16TH

Commissioner Turner Defendant For Seat

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 26—The suit of T A Allen, who was defeated at the general election in November for commissioner from precinct No 3, against W. O Turner who is now discharging the duties of that office, will or heard in the 58th district court on April 16. This date was named by Judge Geo. C. O'Brien.

In answering the petition Jos. A Harrison, attorney for Turner alleges that there is no legal ground for the suit, and that if the court saw fit to change the lines of the precinct that would not alter the status of the election.

It was alleged in Allens petition that the boundary was changed for the purposed defrauding him of his rights to the office of county commissioner. The change in the boundary line after the primary election, at which time Allen was nominated, made him a resident of Precinct No 1 instead of Precinct No 3, for which he was a candidate.

ELECTRA MAN IS FLOGGER VICTIM

Then He is Arrested For Wife-Desertion

WICHITA FALLS, March 26.—J. W. Jacobs, mechanic, kidnaped from a hotel at Electra Saturday at midnight, was found late last night at a local rooming house, it was announced today at the sheriff's office.

He had been taken there by a friend, who had found him roaming about a ranch near Electra in a dazed condition. Jacobs said he was beaten and robbed of $125 by three men, who called him from his room at the Electra hotel to repair some machinery for them.

Jacobs was not shot, as reported in early reports from Electra.

A warrant was served on him today for wife desertion. He refused to comment on this, authorities said.

$100,000 SCHOOL FOR NEDERLAND

Board Orders Election of Trustees April 7

Special to The News

NEDERLAND, Texas, March 26—The board of trustees of the Nederland Independent School district in a special session ordered an election for three trustees to succeed J. M. Morgan, R. D. Dawson, and H. E. Wagner whose term expires in April. Saturday, April 7, was set as the date for the election, which will be held at the High school building, and I. W. Keeney, W. E. Butler and J. C. Jones were appointed election judges. All candidates who will make application to the secretary of the board on or before April 2 will have his or her names printed on the official ballot.

All offers for a site on which to construct a new High school building, out of the funds of the $100,000 bonds recently voted, were considered and discussed. Four sites were offered. One containing seven and one-half acres just east of the interurban tracks and two blocks west of the present school building, was offered by Lawrence Kordemay for $7,000, one containing four and one-half acres bordering on the northern boundary of the townsite and on the Beaumont Port Arthur road was offered by E. A. Bunge of Port Arthur for $6,000; one containing six acres out of the south end of his farm was offered by W. S. Gibson, for $4,200, and one containing eight acres for a price of $8,000 was offered by M. W. Oakley. This tract is located on the eastern edge of town across the K. C. S. tracks from the business section, and was eliminated by the board on account of the shape in which the land lies. It was claimed that this was a strip 230 feet long for a length of approximately 880 feet and widening to 330 feet for a length of about 440 feet.

Life insurance companies hold nearly $1,500,000,000 of farm mortgages, more than any other class of investors.

FUND FOR PRISON IS COMPLICATED

Priority Issue Looms in Appropriation

AUSTIN, Texas, March 26.—The question of priority of payment of appropriations was further complicated today when the state prison commission made a demand on the comptroller to make a warrant deposit in the state treasury covering the $600,000 emergency appropriation made by the recent session of the legislature to aid the commission in paying its debts until the cotton crop is harvested on state farms next fall. The comptroller declined to make the deposit, suggesting that the treasury department transfer from general revenue the $600,000 to the prison commission's account. The treasurer will not take any action until the attorney general has given opinion on the priority appropriation question which has been presented to him by the treasurer in the matter of transferring $3,000,000 from the general revenue fund to the available school fund for payment of the emergency school appropriation made at the regular session.

The attorney general and his staff of assistants have held several conferences on an opinion prepared by Assistant Attorney General Sutton which holds that there is no priority in payment of appropriations.

But this opinion has not yet been passed upon by the attorney generals department and today there appeared to be a hitch which may be straightened out at another conference to be held this afternoon. There was an all day conference Sunday without a decision being reached. Adoption of the Sutton opinion would mean that the treasurer would transfer immediately from the general revenue fund of $3,000,000 to the available school fund and $600,000 to the prison commission's account. The treasurer has announced that the transfer of the $3,000,000 school appropriation at this time would immediately return the state to a deficiency basis, and the general revenue fund would be further depleted by the transfer of $600,000 to pay the prison commission emergency appropriation.

OIL LAND ROW BEFORE ESTES

Title Sued For in Dec. 28, Liberty County

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 26—Notwithstanding the fact that Judge W. L. Estes dismissed a similar action in February for want of jurisdiction, Attorneys Orgain and Carroll, acting for W. A. Whitehurst have filed suit in federal court against H. Stengler, and Lucinda, Gray A. Ethel Stengler of Liberty county, A. B. Goodman, R. C. Miller, J. E. Josey and M. E. Goodman of Jefferson county, Frank Carpenter, trustee; Elva Oil company, Young Lee Oil company, Humble Oil & Refining company, and Sun Pipe Line company, for title and possession to a small parcel of land out of Section 28, Liberty county, together with the oil that has been produced therefrom.

It is alleged that oil to the amount of 800,000 barrels of a value of $1,600,000 has been extracted from the land. Damages in the sum of $500,000 are also asked.

In declining to assume jurisdiction when the former case was before him, Judge Estes held that the diversity of citizenship had been deliberately made for the purpose of bringing court action in federal court. He also held that the plaintiff had been "improperly" made a party to the case through the fact that suit was filed before he had been notified that the land had been deeded to him.

Ministers Oppose Ball Park on Lake Shore

Opposition to the construction of a proposed baseball field on Lake Shore park was voiced by members of the Minister's Alliance during its meeting this morning.

While the ministers did not go officially on record as being opposed to the park, discussion showed a general desire not to see a ball field erected on the drive.

The ministers indicated that such steps would "let down the fence" and that they "didn't want to see anything like that constructed, especially near the high school building."

DEAF, HE HEARS BY RADIO WAVES

Engineer Magically Restores 26 Years of Silence

DETROIT, March 26.—Radio music yesterday broke the silence of Leo Kuhen, 28, who has been deaf and dumb for 26 years. For the first time in his life he was able to hear voices and music and to speak words, the first he had ever spoken.

The silence was broken in a Detroit radio station when Kuhen participated in an experiment that will eventually enable him to speak. It was conducted by M. R. Mitchell, radio engineer.

A set of high powered receivers were attached to the amplifying panel and with radio frequency amplified about 20 times, Mitchell spoke the word "Ford" into the microphone. The word "Ford" was used because that is where Kuhen is employed. Kuhen heard sounds but wrote down on paper that he did not understand the word. It was repeated—and he understood.

For more than half an hour he stood before the radio instrument with a list of words in his hands. As Mitchell spoke a word Kuhen would point it out on the list.

Then he said he wanted to talk, and he said "Holy, holy, holy," in a weak voice.

Kuhen lost his hearing and speech when he was two years of age as a result of scarlet fever.

YOU AND I

SLAVES

When the old Egyptians buried King Tut, they put in his tomb a lot of "ushabti," statues of people a few inches tall. These were supposed to come to life as slaves, to wait on Tut in the underworld. Same principle as burying food and weapons with the dead, a custom that our Indians also had.

If Tut could come to life today, also his slave-statues, he would trade the whole batch of them for a flivver. You have real wizards as your slaves when you drive an auto, ride in a street-car or press a button that operates anything electrical.

BLIZZARD

More than 10 feet of snow fell this winter in Portland, Me. To equal that the weatherman has to go back 50 years.

Weather runs in cycles, like nearly everything else. Cutting down the forests may have lessened snowfall in some districts. It may also have affected rainfall. But strike an average temperature over periods of 10 years each, and the climate has not changed since the first records were kept more than a century ago. Some old settlers believe otherwise. But the terrific winters they tell about will repeat in future years when the cycle finishes its revolution.

COAL

Coal has been so scarce in Quincy, Mass., that it could be obtained only on a doctor's prescription.

Meantime, enough unmined coal underground in our country to supply us for over a thousand years.

Various suggestions have been made for putting a stop to our periodic fuel shortages. The mosts sensible one is for consumers to fill their bins in summer when coal is begging applies to big industrial users, for homes consume only a tenth of America's total production of soft coal and a half of its hard coal.

HAULING

How would you like to make your living hauling stuff at a price of a cent and a fifth a mile for each ton? For instance, to haul five tons of coal or furniture for six cents a mile.

That's what the railroads did last year. They received an average of less than a cent and a fifth a mile for carrying the average ton of freight. The rate may be too high, at that. But it shows a tremendous economy, compared with the cost of most of the other things we do in civilization. Big volue of business is the reason.

HEART

Twenty thousand school children in New York City have heart disease, doctors find. One in every 50 pupils. A small percentage, yes, but a very big percentage to have this serious physcial defect develop so early in life.

Organic heart disease competes with pneumonia and tuberculosis for first place among the causes of death. It usually doesn't kill until maturity. But generally it starts in youth.

Diseased teeth and throats are the portals of entry for rheumatism and other diseases that affect the heart. That's what to watch, to protect your children. Also, don't let them overstrain, especially by trying to lift beyond their strength.

DEATH OF A DIRT FARMER

Milo D. Campbell of Michigan is dead. He was a dirt farmer and died on the golf links. He had just completed four holes of golf when he was stricken. He was sworn in a dirt farm member of the Federal Reserve Board only a week ago.

It will be recalled that the congressional farm bloc demanded representation on the board. It will be recalled that Colonel N. A. Shaw of Texas was promised the job. Colonel Shaw is a banker and a resident of Texarkana. He is the owner of several farms in the Red River valley but he is not a golf player. This may have been the reason why Shaw was not given the appointment.

Dirt farmers who are golf players are few and far between in the south west. Now that the golf player is dead, Colonel Shaw may obtain recognition. He was born a Democrat, he lived a Democrat until he was fifty and then he deserted the reservation to cast his ballot for Harding and Coolidge.

When the plum tree was shaken by Harding, the Michigan man got the job. Now Shaw has returned to the reservation and when he is not banking he is growing long stable cotton.

A Houston capitalist journeyed all the way to Denver last summer to wager $45,000 on a fake horse race. He lost his money. He knew that the conspirators were going to tap the wires and rob the bookies. An honest man, he was very indignant when he discovered that he was the victim, and told his story to the authorities. Now just what did he expect?

IN ARKANSAS

Law abiding citizens of Arkansas organized a vigilance committee last fall when the rail strike was on. They took the law into their own hands; they hanged one striker, shot others, and ran hundreds out of the country. What were the courts and sheriffs and the soldiers of Arkansas doing while all this was on? In America the people are the masters. They select all the officers. They create all the laws. Just why should they take the law into their own hands?

COTTON FAMINE IN MEXICO

Mexico is fact to face with the cotton prices. There is a faminine of raw material there. Textile factories may be forced to shut down. Cotton in the City of Mexico cost industrial consumers twenty-five per cent more than in the United States. There is a heavy import tax on cotton and unless the government reduces the tax the supply on hand in the Mexican mills will not last sixty days. There is plenty of cotton in Texas, there is a demand for it in Mexico, and it is up to the Obregon government to grant legislative relief to the manufacturers and millers of Mexico.

Sugar buyers should rest easy. Secretary Herbert Hoover says there will be a probable surplus at the end of the year of 476,000 tons. If so, why high priced sugar?

WHERE ARE THE CROAKERS?

All of the production statements and business records available to the department of commerce indicate that business in the United States is proceeding at the rapid pace noted earlier in the year. In the textile fields rates of cotton consumption reduced the total stocks of raw cotton at the end of February to the lowest point reported at this season of the year since 1914. Also increased prosperity is confirmed by the marked decline in business failures and the continued rise in stock prices. Where are the croakers of yesteryear.

Norway is headed toward the dry line. Its parliament has enacted an law for the prohibition of heavy wines in that country. Prohibition is making gigantic strides in the Scandinavian countries. Pussyfoot Johnson must have planted the seed over there.

SHIFTY MR. BULL

There are 1,000,000,000 idle workers in England; there is a strike of miners threatened in the British and Welsh coal fields, and there is a strike of farm laborers in the agricultural sections. John Bull is having his own troubles, but his foreign commerce is increasing, his shipping companies are carrying most of the freight of the world, his manufacturers and millers are shipping goods to all clines and he is getting ready to pay interest on his war loans. John may be bull headed but he is the world's greatest trader and always manages to light upon his feet.

Now comes a New York banker with the prediction that over enthusiasm among Among American business men might cause excessive competition for labor and industrial materials. What would he have them do? Stand still and let the procession go by?

MAN OF THE HOUR

Clarence Saunders of Tennessee is the man of the hour. He is the founder and financial giant of the Piggly Wigglies. The man from Tennessee trimmed the trimmers and when the trimming was over he had added ten to fifteen million dollars to his private fortune and made millions of dollars for his associates. Trimmers were caught short on Piggly Wiggly common. They are short yet. The man from Tennessee is the cock of the Wall street walk and his picture will appear on the front page of ever American newspaper able to buy a picture. Piggly Wiggly hit 'em hard. It is a high jump from a Tennessee grocery store in a small town to the apex of Wall Street but the Piggly Wiggly man made the jump and now he has money to throw to the birds.

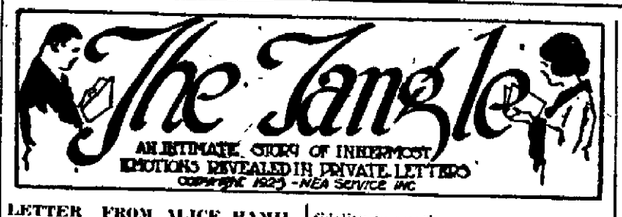
BUILDING BOOM ON

Houston has a building boom on and permits for March totaled $3,500,000 by far the biggest month in the building of the bayou city. There appears to be a building boom on in every city or town of any importance in the south west. Is this a hopeful sign? Is it a prosperity straw? All the big builders of America are of the opinion that there will be more money invested in building enterprises this year, than ever before in the history of the country.

Secretary Henry C. Wallace of the department of agriculture is touring Texas. He reminded an audience of Fort Worth that "the federal administration is in good hands." It is. Its chief made Henry C. Wallace a cabinet officer. Wallace is a dirt farmer, the publishers of several farm news papers and he made a fortune as a dirt farmer publisher before he invaded the political arena.

THERE IS MONEY IN WOOL

Texas and sheep and goat raisers expect to wipe out all their debts this year including the drough debts of 1917-1918 and the deflation in values in 1920. They expect fifty cents a pound for their wool and a fancy price for their mohair. Sutton is one of the great live stock counties of Texas, having 300,000 sheep and 60,000 head of cattle, but Crocket county is away in the lead. Crockett has 500,000 sheep and the owners say that the animals will produce an average of eight pounds each this spring. All is well in the Concho River valley.



LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO BETTY STOKLEY

You can imagine, dear Betty, how thrilled I was to get a cablegram. I had never even seen a real cablegram before, let alone receiving one, and just think, dear, it was relayed to me from New York by wireless. It was a good thing that I happened to be alone at the house when it came, as mother would certainly have made me confess all.

Your idea is splendid. The moment I received the cablegram I made arrangements to meet Karl Whitney at tea at the Country Club. His voice was full of repressed excitement when I told him I thought I had hit upon the plan.

When I first told it to him he seemed a little dubious.

"Someone," he said, "who is a connoisseur of pearls will surely see them, and the conspiracy will be all off."

But I finally talked him over and he agreed to it. I really think secretly he wanted Leslie to know and just keep it to herself, but I know my own sex well enough to know that a loving young bride tells her husband everything and a sensible old wife tells him nothing.

Karl had the pearls in a case in his pocket, Betty, and you never saw such gorgeous things in your life. Think of it! Sixty lustrous, luxurious, lovely pearls, and not one of them cost less than two thousand dollars!

Don't you wish you had someone who loved you well enough and was rich enough to make you a present like that?

If I had been Les I don't think I ever could have resisted Karl. Personally, I think him much nicer than the man she is going to marry.

But as we have said to each other often times, one never can tell just why or when or with whom one will fall in love. The only thing one will know about it is that one is in love.

It seems strange, Betty, to be treated as a grown-up young woman by one of Les' admirers, but, of course, now that my older sister is to be married, and I am seventeen years old, it is right that I should take my place in society.

I'll tell you honestly, however, that I'll never have a grand wedding; I think they are all foolishness.

It really seems to me like making an awful bluff, when you do not yet know the value of your hand. Think how you feel if after a year or two you would want to get a divorce and the papers would refer back to your wonderful wedding.

No, I'm determined that I shall elope when I marry. But I haven't seen anyone yet that I am in love with—at least I do not get hot and cold when some good-looking chap comes into the room. I've tried to be thrilled with a lot of chaps, but it would not work. Guess I'm too practical to fall in love. Even when Karl Whitney took both my hands in his hand, looking down into my eyes, said in the most impressing manner — "dear little Alice, I didn't think it were possible that any girl of your age could be so sympathetic and understanding" — my heart didn't miss a beat.

Won't it be glorious while Les is being married for me, at the very end of the bridemaids' row, to look across at Karl Whitney, who is one of the ushers, and then let my glance rest for a moment on the glorious string of pearls on Les' neck (for I'm going to insist upon her wearing them) before sending him another look of deepest sympathy and understanding?

I and I only shall know how he is experiencing "a feeling of sadness and longing" — because the only women he will ever love is unknowingly wearing a gift that he has been preparing for her for years as she takes upon herself the vows of eternal fidelity to another man.

Oh, Betty, isn't it glorious? I do not think that any other girl in all the world ever had a real romance like this flung at her. You may write it, but I am a part of the living of it.

What do you mean by complications? I'm crazy to see your book. Are you really going to have this one of the things that happens to your heroine? I shall feel quite like a real author.

I'm going to keep your cablegram, however, because some time I might want to tell it to my grandchildren just to show them that when I was young I took part in a real love story right out of a novel—one that was really and truly alive. You are a dear thing to help me out with the plan. I should never have thought of it.

Don't stay abroad too long. Now that I'm really a grown-up young lady and Les is out of the way we could have an awful lot of fun if you were here.

With lots of love,

ALICE.

Read Mark 14:40-50.

"It is impossible to know sin . . . until we see it in the light of Gethsemane and Golgotha."

Even though it be a cross that raiseth me.
Still all my song shall be,
Nearer, my God, to thee,
Nearer to thee!

Once On a Time

BY BERTON BRALEY

The men of benignity, greatness and dignity,
Captains of commerce and trade;
Whose mighty ability, strength and virility
Make us a little afraid;
Who work so aggressively, talk so impressively—
Lose just a bit of their thrall
If we can just realize these we idealize
Once were exceedingly small!

They don't seem so awfully lofty and vast,
If we can just vision the days of the past,
When John Rockefeller
Was learning his speller,
And Henry Ford played with his rattle;
When Elbert H. Gary
Was chuckful of merry
And innocent infantile prattle;
When William J. Bryan
Would silently lie on
The eiderdown quilt of his crib;
When Gompers wore rompers,
And Schwab wore a bib!

When Lodge, the proud senator, vexed his progenitor,
Wasn't the slipper applied?
Before Mr. Daugherty reached his majority,
Or Taft grew so tall and so wide,
They acted mischievously, suffering grievously
Doubtless, for all that they did.
However, we group our men—common or supermen—
Each of them once was a kid.
They don't seem so dazzlingly great and sublime,
If we can just vision "Once on a time—"

When Harding was creeping,
Or Wilson was sleeping,
Wrapped up in an infantile dress;
When Morgan, the banker,
With babyish rancor
Would howl all the day, more or less.
When Denby and Hoover
Would sigly maneuver
For jam or for cookies ad lib—
When Gompers wore rompers,
And Schwab wore a bib!

GERMANS SEEK TO MISLEAD U.S.

In Better Shape For War Than Amercia Realizes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—All Americanism officers of the American Legion have been warned by Garland W. Powell, national director of the Americanism commission of the Legion, to be ready to combat any attempt of propagandist to reintroduce hyphenism into the United States. That the recent address of Von Hindenburg is a portion of a great movement of the German propagandists which now assumed the aspects of a national campaign to interest the public in the pro-German side, is the declaration of Mr. Powell.

He stated that the most effective weapon with which to fight this insidious attempt to make Americans forget, is the use of Americanism so that the people will resent all foreign efforts at influence.

"There are 50,000 Americans buried in France," who fell in breaking the Hindenburg line in 1918. The American people will not forget this in reading Von Hindenburg's new threats of war," Mr. Powell said.

That a revolution for the restoration of the Hohenzollern monarchy is impending, is the belief of Mr. Powell. He asserts that Von Hindenburg who had been selected as leader of the movement, had attempted to open his campaign by calling for war with France in his recent address to the German veterans league.

"Germany is today in better position for war than the world realizes," said Mr. Powell, "but German propaganda is being exerted to bring the American people to believe otherwise," he added, in repeating his warning.

This winter almost slipped by without anyone repeating that hot water improves a cold bath.

Quick Quaker Oats
Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

Now our experts have perfected a quick-cooking Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

The same super-quality, the same exquisite flavor. All Quaker Oats; are flaked from queen grains only.

But for Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner — that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

Grocers now have both styles. But Quick Quaker is marked "Quick" on the label. Get that if you want quick cooking. No other oats on the market cook nearly so quickly as these.

Why I use Resinol

Because it gives such instant relief from any itching rash or more severe case of eczema. It is unusually soothing and healing to inflamed tender skin. Used with Resinol Soap it does wonders for poor complexions. Every home should have Resinol Ointment on hand as first aid for Wall Street's attention at the start the new week was turned to the deral Reserve conference at Washton, principally because three sucsive days of declines in the stock rket had led to the belief that some nonition might be expected regard excessive speculation and the spect of higher money. In the test banking circles it was felt t no further increase in the redisnt rates was contemplated at pres. and that any statement issued by e meeting would be reassuring. Theief gave support to pivotal stocks d the lows of last week were not aken in the early dealings. Steel mmon sold at 106⅞, a fractional reery from Saturday's final.

The gain of United States Steel at e opening today gave the stock rket a slightly better tinge alough most stocks showed by their actional declines a tendency to conue the drops which marked the st two days of the previous week. rokerage houses in week-end adances showed wide differences of inion about the course of the mart.

SPORT CLOTHES WILL BE DIFFERENT THIS YEAR, JUST TO PROVE FASHION'S FICKLE

It's a funny old fashioned world we're living in. Only one rule holds and that is never let the same thing be in fashion two seasons at a time.

Just because sports clothes have always suggested gay colors—vivid greens and brilliant reds—they are going to be different this year. Many of the very smartest clothes are in soft neutral tones. Grays and sand and the dozen and one shades of tan will be the last cry in fashionable sport togs for summer. Violet shades are also good, but the more dashing hues are given by stripes and plaids in gay tints.

When a frock of unbleached muslin is made so smartly that it sells for sixty dollars, you may know it is a stunning and exclusive model. A frock of this homely fabric was noticed in a down-town shop the other day, but it was cleverly designed and hand embroidered in red and all sorts of queer little motifs—rabbits, fishes, warriors, chickens, lambs and dogs.

The sleeveless coat and plaited skirt is also good this season, blue and sand checked flannel making a good combination with a bodice of navy roshanara crepe, trimmed in the flannel.

The suit has a way with it this spring, as it is proved by one seen recently of cocoa colored wool jersey. The little jumper blouse was separate, embroidered in yarn of four colors, sand, brown, turquoise and burnt orange, in stripe effect. The same colored wools form points of the skirt.

One of the popular knit frocks is white, trimmed in old gold ribbon. The skirt is figured in black and gold.

A three-piece knitted suit of white worsted and fiber silk, trimmed in vivid colors—green, orange, and a touch of purple—had a separate coat, which made it a jaunt affair.

LITTLE MISS MARY EVELYN Dunn celebrated her eleventh birthday anniversary in most delightful fashion Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Dunn, 1001 Sixth street.

A charming color scheme of pink and white was featured in all details of the pleasing affair, and was displayed in the pretty arrangements of spring flowers and roses about the rooms.

Dancing and games were indulged in during the evening and in an amusing contest, Clara Mae Richardson was awarded the girl's favor, and W. D. Caughran received the boy's prize. Dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake, featuring the combined hues, were served, and attractive favors of candy Easter bunnies and chicks and toy balloons were presented the guests as souvenirs.

Those enjoying little Miss Dunn's birthday celebration were Rebecca Reed, Elizabeth Autrey, Laura Louise Richardson, Clara Mae Richardson, Louise Latimer, Elizabeth Latimer, Gloria Mae Swearingen, Beatrice Swearingen, Josephine Lyles, Mary Frances Banker, Durelle Stump, Nancy Hand, Daisy Ferris, Myrtle Pine, Florence Dunn, Gladys Ann Winter, Laverge Gifford, Clothilde Caughran, Ada Dunstan, Jimmie Winter, Paul Gifford, W. D. Caughran, Lawrence Dunn, Charles Dunstan, Joe Ellender, John Lynn Saxon, Wiley Hall Steen, Alvis Davis, Jr., and Calvert Steck.

Assisting Mrs. Dunn in entertaining her daughter's guests were Mrs. F. E. Gifford, Miss Mildred Saxon, and Miss Florence Going.

MRS. H. F. BANKER, PRESIDENT of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist church, South, and Mrs. C. B. Manly, Sr., have returned from the Woman's Missionary Society of the Texas conference, in session at Jacksonville, Texas, from March 20 to 23.

More than two hundred delegates were in attendance and a most successful year's work was reported, over one hundred thousand dollars having been raised by the women of the conference during the past year.

Many Port Arthur women will be interested to know that Miss Mary Tarrant, who is a missionary to China at home on a furlough, attended the conference. Miss Tarrant is a cousin of Mrs. J. C. Dawson of Beaumont, who formerly lived in Port Arthur.

Miss Tarrant has been doing missionary work in China the past twenty five years.

Another interesting speaker at the conference was Miss Maude Mathis, returned missionary from Brazil, who is in Texas taking a post-graduate course at Texas University.

Miss Matlis, according to Mrs. Banker, declared that one of the greatest needs among women in Brazil was a knowledge of domestic science. Miss Mathis, after completing her course in domestic science at the university, will go back to Brazil to teach it in connection with her evangelistic work.

"Missionary Milestones" was a most wonderful pageant given by the Jacksonville Methodist church, Mrs. Banker stated. The one hundred and fifty persons took part in the pageant, which took two hours and fifteen minutes to present.

An echo meeting of the conference will be held at the First Methodist church in Beaumont on Monday, April 2, at which time reports from the delegates from both Port Arthur and Beaumont, will be made. The meeting will be an all day session, beginning at 10 o'clock and continuing until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A picnic lunch will be served at noon.

A large delegation of Port Arthur women will be among the out-of-town visitors to the echo meeting.

GIRLS WARNED BY FOLLIE STAR

Kay Laurell Tells of Many Temptations

BY KAY LAURELL
Former Follies Beauty, Now a Star on Broadway

NEW YORK, March 26.—In the shadows of the shimmering lights of Broadway are enacted daily hundreds of tragedies of which the Dorothy King murder was just one of the many closing chapters.

For among the thousands attracted by the White Way lights—some just to watch and look on, some to feel the warmth of the glow, some to have their wings singed—are many who seek the easiest way.

And find it—the hardest.

Then, on the other side of Broadway, they fall lower and lower, until completely engulfed in the maelstrom, they give in—

Victims of drugs, drink and other vices that sap them until the very end.

* * *

On Broadway since 16, I know of these tragedies. Luckily my home training and natural reserve spared me from temptation. But many other girls weren't so fortunate.

They fell into the pitfalls—some voluntarily—but mostly victims of circumstance or the connivance of scoundrels. These are to be found in all guises from the fatherly old men—called "daddies"—to the slick-haired lounge lizards—human parasites, all.

When a young man, not listed in the social register, has no visible means of support, and yet seems always amply supplied with money, it's time for a girl to be careful.

But not all of them are.

* * *

Elsie Lee Hilair was well known along Broadway. She lived uptown but loved the glitter of the cabarets. She used to sneak off afternoons and come down to the popular "tea dansants." Amiable dancing partners made her life pleasant until she was found murdered in a hotel several years ago.

Several thousand dollars worth of her jewels were missing. The police investigated, rounded up a gang of "lounge lizards" but never solved the mystery.

It still remains a closed book, resembling, in many ways, the murder of Dorothy King, the model, whose real name was Anna Keenan; she was found dead, mysteriously chloroformed, and $10,000 worth of jewels were missing.

Both women tried to blaze a path along the White Way that would make even blase Broadway take notice. Both women finally succeeded—in death.

* * *

But the deepest tragedies come when young, naive girls, untutored in the ways of the Broadway world, become innocent victims of another's perversity.

A young chorus girl I knew had been raised in a convent. She was barely 16 when she got her first job. One night, after a long rehearsal, one of the other girls gave her a sniff of powder saying it would brace her up.

The next night the novice got more. She liked it. Before she realized it she had become addicted to the drug, the name of which she didn't even know!

She tried to break herself of the habit. But it had made her its slave.

She went to another theater. The leading man there became enamored of her. The money she received from him, she used only to purchase dope from a chorus man who was a vendor on the side.

To cast off the curse, she went to a sanitarium. But the habit gripped her again, even after she had taken the cure. Finally there was but one way out. She took it—by committing suicide.

* * *

Another girl, refined and cultured, who once played in the same company with me, became friendly with an apparently charming old gentleman known as a "daddy". His ruling passion was gambling.

Not many weeks elapsed before his younger companion contracted his fondness for watching the wheel go 'round. With bated breath she would stand for hours to see whether red or black came up.

It was not long before she wanted to spend all her time in the gambling dens. Even old "daddy" couldn't keep up with her. He finally dropped her—as most "daddies" eventually do.

Then she had to go it alone.

It's amazing how many dives there were for all sorts of victims. When the girl couldn't get into the more fashionable resorts, she went down the scale.

Down, down, down, until now. . . She's at the very bottom.

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners
By Norma Talmadge

The carriage or motor car is as much an adjunct of social life as is the ball room. There is a correct carriage for every occasion, but few are wealthy enough to have them all. The same social usages, however, go in the main for all private conveyances. Deportment that's proper for the limousine is generally proper for the humble taxicab.

CARRIAGES AND MOTORS

1: It's correct for a man to put his hand under a woman's elbow to assist her into a carriage or motor.

CITY LEAGUE TO HOLD MEETING THURSDAY EVE

All Committees To Report This Week

By BILL ARCHER

Final reports of the committee of the City League will be made Thursday night.

The conference, the third of the league to be held this season, will be staged in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce, according to announcement made soon after the meeting last Thursday evening, at which time considerable progress of the four teams composing the League was reported.

The schedule will probably be adopted at the meeting Thursday night. President George Weddell of the League let it be known after the conference last week. At that time, he intimated, a tentative schedule was presented by Chairman Green of the schedule committee, and met with the approval of the entire League membership. However, it was decided that additional time would be granted each committee and that final reports would not be made until Thursday night.

The schedule as introduced by Chairman Green indicates that the League will probably open its season on Lakeshore Diamond about the middle of April, extending through the summer season until about the middle of August.

No definite dates have been settled upon yet however, since the final report of the schedule committee has not been made.

A final report of the rules committee will also be expected Thursday night. The suggestions by this body, to be voted upon by the League membership, will establish the regulations to govern the teams in the city organization this season.

Additional information concerning the progress being made by the four teams composing the League, and several short talks are also understood to be on the program for the evening.

Information gathered over the week-end indicated that considerable progress toward organization has been made by the Texas Island, Texas Company, City team and the Good Gulf club. From these organizations, the City League has decided to draw its own organization to compose the League, and as a result of cutting down the League to four nines this season, the fans are expecting to witness some crack ball games.

Each of the teams have been working out their organizations, and all of them except the City team have been practicing already. While several of the players who will possibly have positions on the City nine this season have already put in their appearance on the diamond and have been limbering up, none of them have signified their definite intentions of taking permanent posts it is understood, and perfection of that club's organization has been somewhat delayed.

Caldera Pitches Invincible Ball For Beaumont

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 26.—The Kansas City Blues walloped the Exporters to the four corners of the lot yesterday, and copped their third game of the exhibition season from Manager Tarleton's protégés.

The game was stopped in the fifth frame by a heavy shower of rain, which had been threatening all afternoon, and which halted play for the day, much to the disgust of some thousand fans, who crowded into the seats in Magnolia Park.

A slow field, soggy with mud, made playing drag along toward the last clash, but in the initial frames, both the Exporters and the Blues developed several thrills that brought cheering from the spectators.

Caldera and Townsend, who held down the mound for the Exporters, hurled unusual ball during their respective turns at the gun, the former possibly pitching invincible baseball to the Blues. They couldn't find him for a thing during his short turn at hurling.

This guy has been a regular cut-up ever since he made his debut as a big leaguer. He has seen many highly touted stars come and go, yet his crown remains undimmed in many respects. When he finally passes out of the limelight his name for years will grace baseball's hall of fame.

Traveling at top speed all the time has been the big idea of this star. Despite the wear and tear of many a campaign he is still able to step with the best of them. Regardless of the ability that he has shown during his career, like many other stars, he found it difficult to break in. The sport sheets have quite frequently featured his face. He has spent his entire career with one club although all of the 16 clubs would have welcomed him.

WORLD SERIES FOR NEW YORK MEANS MONEY

Each Player Would Get About $10,000

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, March 26.—Another world's series staged privately in New York will mean almost $10,000 each to the winning players and nearly as much to the losers.

This bait dangling before their fingers should make the Giants and Yanks mighty hard to beat in the pennant races. It is sufficient to make even some of the languid Yanks shift into higher gear.

The erection of the new Yankee stadium to accommodate a crowd of 70,000 and the improvements in the Polo Grounds which will increase the capacity to 52,000 should provide a stimulus to the eight clubs in both leagues.

Every one of the American League clubs can figure on the end that would come to them if they played half or more of the series in the Giant park, and an even greater inducement is offered to the National League club that could beat the Giants and get into a series in the Yankee stadium.

John McGraw has a great money club, perhaps the most balanced and collected team under fire in either league. It is impossible to conceive of a more powerful urge on the Giants than the lash of McGraw and the rattling of coin in the series money bag.

Most all the critics are willing to admit that the Yanks have a powerful machine if they would work as an organization.

The ability of Miller Huggins to make them hustle has been the cause of debate in the past. Personally, Huggins may not be able to keep the club on edge this season, but if the promise of that money fails to influence them the club might just as well be disbanded.

In addition, a much greater purse for the athletes who will fight it out in the series if one end is staged in New York, there will also follow a substantial increase in the money that will be split among the clubs that finish second and third in both pennant races. The fight for third place in the American League should be a hummer and the contest in the National League should be just as warm.

It might be suggested that the fact that these two big parks in New York adds to the dangers of commercialism that is said to be threatening baseball; but if it makes the teams hustle and creates two great pennant races the fans will not be overly concerned about how much money the magnates make out of it.

WASHINGTON EXPECTED TO PRESENT STRONGER FRONT IN BIG SHOW THIS YEAR

Evans Reviews Perspective Of Club, Players, Chiefs And Finds Snappy Nine to Be in Race for Major League Honors

BY BILLY EVANS

TAMPA, Fla., March 26.—The Washington Nationals will unquestionably present a stronger front this year than last. It is certain to be a much improved ball club.

I have various reasons for so thinking. A few of them are:

Roger Peckinpaugh looks in the best condition I have seen him in years. The preliminary work and baths at Hot Springs have worked wonders with him. For a veteran, Peck is sure stepping lively. He is in far better shape right now than when he opened the season last year.

Peck is one of the greatest shortstops in the game. He got away to a bad start last year. Not until the last two months did Peck strike his gait. I look for him to play a game for the Nationals this year that will win over his deriders of last season.

The ball club can't get anywhere without a great shortstop. With Peck going in top form the Nationals are far more dangerous. The Washington fans should be with him to a man.

Should anything go wrong with Peck, Manager Bush has Gagnon, the Holy Cross star, to fall back on. Gagnon looks like the making of a great ball player and he isn't very far away.

Third base, a position that was the source of much trouble last year, seems well fortified. I have no doubt but that Bush will be able to pick a capable man for the position from the talent on hand.

I was much impressed by Conroy. He is a big, strapping fellow, who covers a world of ground in an easy, graceful manner. He has a fine pair of hands and, regardless of how a ground ball behaves, always seems to come up with it.

One of the most promising youngsters I have seen in years is Bluege. He was with Washington for a time last year, later being farmed out to Minneapolis. I liked the boy the first time I lamped him, and he looks better every time I see him in action.

Bluege is a sure fielder. When he comes up with the ball some soil comes with it. If fielding alone was to be considered, they would have a hard time keeping Bluege off the bag. If Bluege can hit major league pitching, and I see no reason why he shouldn't, the young man has a future.

In the outfield Washington should show a hundred per cent improvement. The speedy Sam Rice and the recruit Goslin are holdovers. Joe Evans, secured from Cleveland, is a fine fielder, a speed merchant, who will rival Rice, and how he can whale left-handed pitching.

In the two recruits, Fisher and Wade, the punch lacking last year seems to have been supplied. Fisher hit .359 in the Western League last year and Wade .311 in the American Association. Both show every sign of making the grade.

Pitching, according to Manager Bush, is his biggest worry. It looks as if the manager is right. Of the new men, Warmouth, a left hander, who beat the Yankees in the final game of the season last year, has great promise.

Last, but not least, is the spirit of the club. In that respect the Nationals are a different aggregation. The players like Manager Bush and are going to make every effort to prove it by winning a lot of ball games.

HEY, FANS

THAT baseball puzzle contest closes Saturda night of this week.

The remainder of the 12 puzzles are being printed this week. In the adjacent column is found today's puzzle.

Get in it, fans; make out your list, and be sure to have them in the News office, addressed to the Sports Editor, not later than April 3.

Remember a couple of season passes to the Exporter and Port Arthur City League games are at stake.

WESTERN MOGULS ADOPT 1923 LEAGUE SCHEDULE

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 26.—A 168-game schedule for the 1923 season was adopted by Western League moguls here yesterday. It was decided to open the season April 12, and close September 30. As arranged Des Moines will open at Wichita; Sioux City at St. Joseph; Omaha at Tulsa, and Denver at Oklahoma City.

John Savage, secretary of the Kansas City Blues and author of the 154-game schedule assisted in arranging the Western League program.

DeMaggio Lands In Exporterville Sunday

Special to The News.

BEAUMONT, March 26.—An incident of more than unusual interest in Texas league circles transpired yesterday morning. It all probably sent a shiver down the spines of seven club managers and brought abundant joy to Stump Edington. "Nic" DeMaggio, "the diminutive wop," most popular idol of the loop, stepped off an eastbound train fresh from California, and joined the 1923 Exporters.

DeMaggio did not decide to report until last week and he immediately hurried Texasward from Los Angeles, where he spent the winter, working there and in Hollywood. The midget gardener appears in excellent condition, in fact, declared he was ready to start, having played ball throughout the season until a couple of weeks ago.

DeMaggio's arrival rounds out the most dangerous appearing outfield in the league, with Kirkham in right, Edington in center and "Nic" himself patroling left or the sunfield, as the case may be.

Diegel Beats Southern In First Year's Co[illegible]

Gene Sarazen, national open champion, as newspaper stories [illegible] Leo Diegel, another famous pro[illegible] task for his lack of golf style.

"Don't copy the style of Diegel" was the gist of the Sarazen article.

Whereupon Leo Diegel announced that the big thing for him in golf during 1923 would be showing Sarazen up by turning in a larger score in every tournament in which the two were entered.

Diegel made good in the first meeting between the two at Miami, Fla., recently, his card showing a margin of three strokes less than that of Sarazen.

While Diegel has an unusual style, that differs considerably from that used by a majority of the professionals, it certainly gets results.

RUTH ON JOB

NEW ORLEANS, March 26—Babe Ruth got a single and a double in four times up as the Yanks were beating the New Orleans club 3 to 2 Sunday.

The Days of Real Sport are Here

Yes, it's time to grab the old bait can and pole and go out after the finny tribe. They're waiting for you. Man, they sure are biting! All the fish want is for someone to come after them. Might as well get yours. Where can you find any better sport than to sit out under God's blue sky and pull in those squirming, twisting, fighting fish?

But half the enjoyment is missing if you don't have the proper equipment. If you are not sure that your pole will stand the strain of battle with a game fish—if your line is not just what you wish, if you don't have the proper assortment of hooks, or the many other things that go to make fishing THE real sport.

Better come in and look over our stock of fishing tackle. We have what you want and at prices that are right. See our window display. It's worth a special trip.

Built-In Fixtures for the New Home

Interior styles in homes are undergoing a change. The plain, square room is giving way to new artistic innovations in the shape of built-in fixtures. Nowadays you sit down to breakfast in a cozy little breakfast room, built into some comfortable nook or corner close to the kitchen. Your book-case is built into the partition or possibly near the fire place. Kitchen cases are built into the wall with conveniences which make for greater facility in preparing meals. China closets are built into the dining room in such a manner as to add greatly to the artistic appearance of the room and to save steps in setting the table.

These and many other features are found in great variation in modern homes. They are elaborated upon in proportion to personal wish for attractiveness inside the home. And the best of it is that old homes can enjoy these new innovations without tearing down and rebuilding.

Why Live Amid Plain Surroundings when a touch of the artistic will lift your home above the average?

We have unlimited facilities for designing, fitting and building in these or any other architectural fixtures that may be desired. We offer suggestions, submit sketches of changes to be made and do the work entirely to your order to fit each particular case.

If you desire to bring the old home up to date telephone us and we will call and give you an estimate of the changes you wish made.

These are but a few of the many built-in fixtures which we make to special order.
